MINING NEWS

Most of the Mines Still Running With Full Crews.

In the McCracken Circuit court last week D. G. Morrell, J. Andy Baor, Louis M. Rieke, Sr., Chas. F. Rieke, Finis E. Luck and Joe Freidman, each filed suits against E. W. Smith for $2,108.80, making a total of $13,182.80.

Each of the plaintiffs claim that April 2d, 1902, the defendant told them that he had an option upon 700 shares of stock of the Cruce Lead and Zinc company which was capitalized at $100,000 and controlled 132 acres of zinc, lead, fluor spar and mineral land in Hardin county, Ill. They claim that Mr. Smith informed them that the option he held would expire shortly and if the stock was to be bought action must be taken right away, as the Cruce representative was preparing to leave the city. The plaintiffs claim that Mr. Smith informed them that he had been down in the two shafts sunk in Hardin county by the company and found ore lying in strata many feet wide, while the sample exhibited to them had come from the place. The petition states that each of the plaintiffs relied upon the statements of Mr. Smith and bought 77 2/3 shares of stock each, paying therefor $2,488.88. April 4th, 1902 each of the plaintiffs paid $1,000 cash on the stock, later paid $400 more, and then made a last payment of $798.80. These payments equal $2,198.80. And now the plaintiffs claim the mineral lands did not prove what they contend Mr. Smith told them that he had not been down in the mines and made examination of same, neither did he take from the shafts the samples of ore he exhibited to them. They claim the property is practically worthless and allege that Mr. Smith agreed to refund them their money, when he got them to buy the stock, if the property did not turn out satisfactory and as he claimed.

All the plaintiffs are well known business men of the city while the defendant is the former tobacco dealer who was president of the Smith & Scott tobacco factory, who started the Globe Bank and Trust company, and was also one of the leading promoters of the boom town LaCenter, down in the new Cairo division of the Illinois Central railroad. Last fall he sold all his interest here and left during December for Los Angeles, Cal., to take up his home.—Paducah Register.

The Rosi Claire and Fair View mines in Illinois have closed down for some time, on account of the river being frozen over and boats could not run: so therefore they could not ship any of their material. This throws a number of miners, engineers and jig men out of work, and the prospects are it will be a long time before they start up again, as when the ice does break it will be a long time before the river gets clear of it, so the boats can run. Transportation on the river will soon be a thing of the past, as when it is not frozen over the ice is going down it from the North, and when the river is not full of ice the water is too low for the boats to run. This gives the Kentucky Fluor Spar company a great advantage over the other mines that are located on the river, as they can ship fluor spar every day in the year if necessary.

The Keystone Mining company are down about 117 feet and have a vein of from 6 to 8 feet of lead and fluor spar, and it appears "the deeper they get the richer it gets." Their main shaft is down only 100 feet and is not on the vein, but they drifted 10 or 12 feet and hit this magnificent vein; and they started a shaft from this level and went down 16 or 18 feet to test the vein, which proves as stated above. The company had the vein surveyed a week or so ago and were glad to find that they were on the famous Ada-Florence, which is considered to be the richest in Western Kentucky for lead.

Mr. Persons tells us that the Campbell Mining company, of Louisville will start a new shaft on the Pogue property about the first of March. At a depth of 80 feet or less he expects to uncover the Columbia vein, which is rich with lead and zinc. The company has three distinct lead and zinc veins running through this property, and one or two spar leads.

Hardin Era: Uncle Geo. Douglass tells us the Marion people still have faith that the I. C. railroad company will yet build the connecting link between Eldorado, Ill. and Marion, Ky., of their great through line South, and that this great company can hardly afford to do otherwise.

The Columbia Mining company took advantage of the hard frozen roads, and had a large number of wagons hauling zinc and loading it on the cars at Marion last week.

The Kentucky Fluor Spar company is installing machinery at each and every one of their mines and are preparing to have a large output at each mine.

DEATH IN THE SHAFT.

The Remains of George Wring Found at the Bottom of the Nancy Hanks.

Some time last Sunday morning George Wring, an engineer employed at the Nancy Hanks mine, went to the mine for the purpose of raising steam to pump the water from the shaft, so that the men could go to work on time Monday morning.

The last seen of Mr. Wring was by the family of A. G. Butler who live but a short distance from the mine, about 7 o'clock, a. m. Later in the day Tom King went to the home of Wring to see him and was told he was at the mine. King went in search of the missing man and on arriving at the Nancy Hanks found no one there, but saw there was a heavy head of steam on and a test showed the water in the boiler dangerously low. King immediately threw open the furnace doors and pumped water in the boiler, thus preventing a terrific explosion. King not finding Wring about the premises gave the alarm whistle which soon collected a crowd of people about the mine. A man was lowered into the shaft and discovered the body of the missing man, bruised and battered, with apparently every bone broken. He must have been dead before striking the water at the bottom of the shaft. As most of the mining shafts in this district are totally unguarded, and if the Nancy Hanks is one of this character, it is reasonable to suppose that a false or incautious step sent the unfortunate man down that shaft to his death. The remains were viewed by Esq. C. R. Stevens, of Salem, but we did not learn of any additional particulars being brought out on the inquest.

Mr. Wring was a member of a prominent family in this county, and leaves several brothers and other relatives to grieve at his untimely end. The Press tenders sincere condolences.

A BIG SWELL.

Madison, Ind., Feb 10.—A message from Beattyville, Ky., report a thirty foot swell coming out of Kentucky river and sweeping everything before it. Great fears of serious damage are entertained, especially by those living in the low bottoms.

A new boiler for the Memphis mines came in and was unloaded last week.

Death of G. W. Johnson.

Mr. G. W. Johnson, a well-known farmer of Crittenden county, died last Friday after an illness of eight days due to pneumonia. Mr. Johnson was in the sixty-second year of his age and was an inoffensive, kind hearted and respected citizen. He was a member of the Baptist church and leaves a wife and three grown sons besides several brothers. Burial took place at the Johnson graveyard Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

The deceased was the owner of "Silver Ridge" farm, so called from the belief of Mr. Johnson that it abounded in rich deposits of silver and other minerals. The property was never developed but he always contended that it was a bonanza and he has refused fabulous offers for his farm.—Providence Enterprise.

The First Kiss.

The greatest surprise to a girl who gets kissed the first time is that there is no taste to it.—Waterloo Times.

No taste to it? Well, by the hen feather on Cupid's dart, but the Times man must be color-blind in the palate. They tell us, those who have tried it, that it tastes like the double-distilled essence of honey spread thick on a piece of pumpkin pie. Away back in the dim and joyful years ago before we lost all our teeth and our cinch on the beauty prize the prettiest girl in all the world told us with her own eyes that it felt like a covey of quails flying out of each ear and ended up with a sensation like a flock of angels pouring molasses down one's back. No taste to the first kiss? Great Scott! It would make a wooden cigar Indian's hair curl and his toe nails quiver in ecstasy. The Times man must be an ice-house.—Red Bud, Ill., Pilgrim.

Binkley-Oliver.

Mr. Joseph Binkley and Miss Cora Oliver, of Frances, Crittenden county, were married in the sheriff's office last Wednesday afternoon by County Judge W. S. Randolph in the presence of quite a number of witnesses. They came in on the 12:45 train and were at once driven to the county clerk's office where license were procured in short order. They were accompanied by Mr. Henry Whit and Miss Carrie Oliver, sister of the bride. Both the bride and groom are members of prominent Crittenden county families. They returned to their home on the 2:45 train.—Princeton Leader.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.

At Smithland Dr. Felix G. Larue Goes Gunning for Blount Hodge with a Revolver.

Monday afternoon the town of Smithland was thrown into a fever of excitement by the firing of four shots from a pistol by Dr. Felix G. Larue at Blount Hodge, son of Attorney J. C. Hodge. Three of the shots took effect. One broke his right leg just below the hip, one struck just over the eye and ranged around the head just under the skin, and passed out back of the ear; another struck back of the ear and penetrated the skull. It is thought the wounds will not prove fatal.

Dr. Larue surrendered to Judge Evans, and when handing him his pistol said: "Judge, I have shot a man down on front street who wrecked my home."

This is said to be the cause of the tragedy. The shooting began in front of Grayot's drug store. After the first shot was fired, which hit its victim over the eye, Hodge turned and ran down the street with Larue closely pursuing, but just as he turned into Clark's hotel the second shot rang out. It entered just back of his ear. After entering the hotel, as he started up the steps to the 2d story, the third shot struck his right leg at the hip and broke it. He fell there, was carried quickly into a physician's office, where a consultation of several of the leading physicians was held and his wounds dressed, and everything done to save his life, which they think can be done.

There are two wounds in the back of the head and the physicians are uncertain whether one ball came out or two went in. Great sympathy is felt for Dr. Larue in his trouble.

THE OLD BRICK CHURCH.

(BY J. W. H.)

By the roadside near the village.
Some sixty years ago,
There stood a humble "meeting house"
That was not built for show.

The roof was low and ample,
Supported by strong walls,
The pews were plain and simple
On either side the aisles.

The doors wide and folding
The windows small and high,
And a humble little belfry
Stood out against the sky.

Within the holy chancel
The man of God proclaimed,
The wonderful salvation
Secured through Jesus name.

Around its sacred altar
The saints received the word,
With love and faith unflinching Commenced they with their Lord.

And just outside the church yard
Amid the flowers and shade,
Beneath the sloping greenward
Their precious dead were laid.

The sunbeams brought the daisies
And made the flowers bloom,
While song birds warbled praises
Above those silent tombs.

The summons of the sabbath bell
That pealed upon the air,
Brought worshippers from hill and dell
To join in song and prayer.

How blessed were those meetings
O'erflow'd their cups, with joy,
When friends, their friends were greeting
In love without alloy.

Those happy days are over
Those forms, are lying low,
Fair maidens and their lovers
Of sixty years ago.

'Twas neath that roof, a baby boy
My mother's love, aglow,
A father's pride, a mother's joy
Some sixty years ago.

The man of God by Christ empowered
The baptismal waters shed,
In holy, sacramental shower
Upon my infant head.

The meeting house is gone, they say
The sweet tone bell, is still,
The village small, has given away
To a city on the hill.

And Marion, now a city fair,
As ever was a bride,
With thrift and progress in the air
Is making rapid stride.

Onward, to the goal of wealth
Increasing day by day,
In resources and in strength
As the years pass away.

So strange and new, these modern things
Great lights that blaze from wires,
And crowded trains, as if on wings
And temples tall, with spires.

The earth her hoarded treasures yield
The shining ores are found,
Machines, like magic, glean the fields
And force the stubborn ground.

To give its treasured blessings up
In ceaseless, countless streams,
And fill each toiler's ample cup
Beyond their fondest dreams.

Her youth, the shining pathways tread
To wisdoms richest fields,
And taste, with blessing on their heads
The life that wisdom yields.

Her homes, her schools, the busy trades
And noble sons are here,
Fair mothers and fairer maids
Enrich the living years.

And thus the Lord a harvest gives,
To mortals here below,
From seed, sown in that dear old church
Sixty years ago.

With me life's tide is ebbing fast,
And when I come to rest,
At Marion, may it be at last,
With those I love the best.

And now, life's journey almost done,
Oh, soon my soul shall know,
My mother and the loved and lost,
Of sixty years ago.

Woman's Weak Point.

She can fool the men about her age,
And fool 'em 'bout her wealth;
Their doubts as to her past assuage
And those about her health.
She fools 'em 'bout her temper, gee!
Of that there is no doubt;
But there is no chance for trickery
When she's growing stout.

In case the chap likes tresses light,
While hers are dark in hue,
The change is safe and simple quite,
And she knows what to do,
The tailor man, though thin she be,
Can always help things out;
But there is no chance for trickery
When she's growing stout.

ESCORTED BY TROOPS.

Lexington, Ky., Feb 8—Attorney B. F. Jonett, representing Mrs. Arbrelia Marom, in her damage suit against the Hargis brothers and others, stated tonight that Gov. Beckham will be asked for a battalion of troops to escort Mose Feltner to Jackson on the 20th of this month, at which time he is to appear before the Circuit Court to answer to the indictment for killing Jessie Fields. It is said that Feltner is in constant fear of bodily harm, and refuses to sit near a window in the house of Mrs. Pigg, where he is kept under surveillance. After giving his depositions Feltner said today:

"I have told the truth, but I know I shall be shot for it. I am going to be killed, and mark what I tell you."

It was made known today that the letter which Lewis Hyes slipped into his pocket told him to "do the right thing" and stated that he would be protected. It also said that if he made any depositions he would not only have to stand trial for killing Fields, but for killing Tom Frazier and for robbing the mails.

NO DREAM.

Already the electric line from Marion via Smithland to Paducah is beginning to look like a go. The Crittenden County Commercial Club has promised to meet us half way. Ollie is a young man and has done more work for the party and had less office than any man in the State. We are for James over Blackburn, and don't you forget it.—Livingston Banner.

VERDICT OF $35,000.

A verdict of $35,000 damages for the loss of his legs is the satisfaction for Richard N. Dorr given him by the jury in the case against the Missouri Pacific railroad company.

Thirty-five thousand dollars is the largest amount ever given in the state of Kansas in a damage suit against a railroad. For that reason the legal fraternity took great pleasure in congratulating J. D. Houston, the attorney for the plaintiff, who conducted the suit so successfully.

The Dorr case has attracted much attention on account of the amount of the damages claimed. Dorr sued the Missouri Pacific railroad company for $50,000 for the loss of both legs on March 5, 1904, for which he claimed the negligence of the railroad company was responsible. He was injured at Freeport while acting as brakeman on a Missouri Pacific freight train. He fell from the step on the engine, and the wheels of several cars passed over his legs, crushing them so that amputation was necessary. Dorr sued the company on the grounds that the company had not provided safe and suitable appliances for him as an employee to do his duties. In the trial it was brought out that the step which Dorr used in alighting was worn out and defective, that the hand hold was too high for convenient reach, and that the railroad track where the accident occurred was graded up from the roadbed instead of away and down from it.

The case was contested hotly by the company, which held that Dorr was also negligent, insofar as he was alighting from the train before it was necessary, and, also because he did notice the defective appliances.

In the questions answered by the jury this morning the fact was brought out that the plaintiff knew the condition of the step and the holder, but none of the company's agent's or officer's had been notified of that.

When the case was given to the jury it was acknowledged by most of the lawyers that the verdict would be favorable, but none had anticipated such a large amount of damages.

The company, by its local attorney, A. E. Helm, gave notice of motion for a new trial.

PRISON STRIPES,

For All Violators of the Law,
Says Ollie James.

Washington, Feb. 8—Representative Ollie James, of the First Kentucky district, elicited considerable applause on the Democratic side by a short speech he delivered, today against the Railroad Rate Bill, or more properly the attitude of President Roosevelt toward this bill. It was well timed, coming immediately after the electoral college ceremonies, and where President Roosevelt had just been declared elected through the grace of a party which is with exceeding bad grace supporting him in legislation which he declares the most important now pending before Congress.

Mr. James, in the beginning of his speech referred to the fact that the last three Democratic platforms made demands for railroad legislation, while the Republican platforms were silent on the subject.

"Is President Roosevelt leading the Democracy?" asked Mr. James "or is he coming to understand from the mutterings and discontent throughout the Republic that the Democratic party was right and that he must get in advance of it, wield its sword, wear its uniform, and use its campaign lance, as he is doing by advocating this rate legislation here today?"

Romanism and Indian Schools.

The fundamental principle underlying the Government of the United States is the entire separation of church and State. A provision forbidding Congress to make any law respecting an establishment of religion is embodied in the Constitution of the United States. All religions are on equality before the law. The government is precluded from aiding in any way the diffusion of the tenets of any sect. It may aid in the diffusion of knowledge, in the general education and elevation of the people—but with the history before it, written in blood, of the evil which an ecclesiastical hierarchy, upheld by civil power, is capable of inflicting on a people, the United States is precluded by its fundamental law from giving its support to any of the numerous sects in this country.

One or two generations ago, before the United States Government had any schools among the Indians, it encouraged the various mission organizations to establish schools. It assisted them in doing it. Its appropriations were designed to help make Presbyterian, or Baptist, or Roman Catholic converts, but to give to the Indians that education and training imparted in public schools generally. In some of the schools the trust was abused. The moneys given for educating were used for sectarianizing. And Congress passed June 7, 1897, which was declaratory of the government's policy in this respect, as follows: "And it is hereby declared to be the settled policy of the government to hereafter make no appropriation whatever for education in any sectarian school."

The Protestant churches generally respected the principle embodied in that law, and have asked no aid from the government in carrying on their missionary work among the Indians. They support their own schools, open to the Indians, without government aid. Not so the Roman Catholics. The Indian Rights Association, Philadelphia, states that during past summer contracts have been made, by direction of the President, whereby certain sectarian mission schools were to be supported from Indian trust funds.

TWO NEW STATES.

The Statehood Bill passed the Senate in an unexpected shape. Indian Territory and Oklahoma are to be admitted as one State New Mexico as another, while Arizona remains a Territory. As the people of Arizona protest that they had rather remain a Territory perpetually than be consolidated with New Mexico, the Senate decided to give them their preference, perhaps with the intention of leaving Arizona one of the sisterhood of States indefinitely.—Courier-Journal.

A BAD RAILROAD WRECK.

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 10.—Passenger train No. 4, over the National Railway of Mexico, known as the Mexico-St. Louis Express, which left here yesterday morning, collided with a freight train at Carnoros, Mex., today.

It is not definitely known how many persons were killed but our rumor reports thirteen dead and seventeen wounded.

Inquires at the offices of the National Railway here elicited the reply that nothing could be learned of the wreck here, the officials stating that they had no details of the accident.

It was later asserted by an employee that the telegraph operator at Saltillo, the first station west of Carnoros, reported but one person had been killed.

Carnoros is on the middle division of the railroad 268 miles south of Laredo.

Evenings at Home.

The evening hours are the holy hours of life. They are the hours in which there is the freest play of all the hallowed influences that come from the domestic relation, the hours in which the radiant forces of the home are focalized and brought to their highest efficiency. There is really just as much sunshine on a cloudy day as when the day is clear, but the sickly growth of vegetation during cloudy weather proclaims its effectiveness. So the home may exert just as much actual influence when its sunshine is intercepted by the clouds of care and busy toil of the day; when the merciless despatch with which father's dinner must be prepared; or with which some of those many labors inseparably connected with home life must be performed, has so absorbed the time and energy of the family that each member seems to be an illustration of the "survival of the fittest." Under these circumstances the home may send forth as large an amount of influence, and yet such influence cannot reach the lives and characters of those who have a claim upon it. Such may be called latent influence. It is only when "the day is done" that home exhibits its sweetness and serene life. It is when the sun has gone down that the home influences become actual and potent. In opening the tender buds of young characters the light from the hearthstone is far more effective than the sunlight. The distinctive characteristics of the home life are manifested most strongly when the labors of the day are ended and the family gather round the fireside for the evening. One hour of evening home life is worth a month of the ordinary daily experience. It matters little where our days are spent if we spend our evenings at home. Man's soul is not receptive during the day, for his attitude is not favorable. The labor of the day puts the mind into that attitude in which it resists the shaping influences of life. Labor itself is in part a process of spiritual resistance, so that the soul that toils is comparatively safe from the toils of temptation. During the hours of labor we are less susceptible to good influences as well as to evil ones. The whole being puts itself on the defensive while it toils. Satisfied with its own condition, it refuses to be changed by outward influences. In this principle we find the explanation of the adage "Idleness is the parent of vice." The evening is the hour when crafty Satan preaches most eloquently. It is also the hour when he can gather the largest and most attentive audience. In our great cities Satan's churches are crowded every evening. But, fortunately, the evening hour is also the hour in which the good angel can gather the largest audience and he who would battle Satan's influence must preach in the evening. The evening is the hour when the protesting power of home is most needed; it is the hour when its protection is most needed.

Horace Mann once wrote a most beautiful truth in the form of an advertisement. "Lost, yesterday, somewhere between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours; each set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered, for they are gone forever."

Cucumbers and Stummy Cake

Friend Jenkins:—I have been interested in hearing of experiments in the application of electricity to the development of vegetation. I am informed by a gentleman friend of mine, now in jail—and may be long remain there—has been applying electricity to the raising of cucumbers, and thinks he has succeeded in forwarding their growth at least several decades. If the cucumber were an animal, there might be some doubt as to whether it is humane to rob it of sleep by a continued application of the electric light. But a society for the protection of vegetables has not yet been organized; and, if it were, my friend could plead that he is simply aiding their development. I am not sure that the cucumber is that fruit of the vine to which I should myself first apply the experiment. Yet it might be argued that if the experiment was a failure here, it would be but a small loss. I have always been shy of this article of diet as a foe of human digestion, though I have friends who eat it with impunity. But, if any vegetable needs to be electrified, perhaps it is the cucumber. The experiment of extracting sunbeams from it has been too expensive; but if a feeble stomach can manage to extract the electricity which my friend is putting into them, the electrified cucumber may come to be regarded as a potent cure for dyspepsia, stummy cake and dry gripes. I have certainly seen people who need a dose of electricity of some sort; and, if they could succeed in getting it out of a cucumber, that humble vegetable might be raised to a new and important function.

That Albert H. Travis, the friend of whom I have been writing, may succeed, not only in electrifying the cucumber, but also the delegates to the county convention, is my earnest hope. Gentlemen of the convention, nominate him and the people will rejoice and ratify the nomination by an overwhelming vote.

In all ages there have been select and lovely youths, adored for their physical charms, for exquisite artistic graces and the gifts of genius. With all his rare gifts, there is one very distinctive and strongly marked feature—his belief in human goodness. He has a passion for goodness, a profound faith in humanity, and the potentialities that lie in all races of men, of whatever color, creed, or degree of development. It is good to know how deeply he is respected, how tenderly he is loved; for to love and honor such a man is itself a sign of a fine nature. Thus to touch the common heart, the sympathetic spring of feeling makes men better and nobler. His—so far—is the pattern of a life lived on the common level, but exalted by devotion to the service of the people, Brother Kevil and our attentive Marshall Cannon—a place, gentlemen of the convention, unique and beautiful. It is helpful, indeed, Friend Jenkins, to their inebriated and unfortunate boarders. There is no sweeter spiritual exercise than this tender enclavement around the life of a public benefactor, who has, in a measure, blessed us, his country, his city, by his innumerable virtues, which all of us may share, all may imitate, if not to a superlative degree, still in accordance with our capacity and good will.

Viva our jailer.

Yours in the caws,

O. G. W.

P. S. I believe in a free platform and a free press. I believe in truth for authority, and deny all authority for truth. All truth that cannot stand the ordeal of the electric search-light of Albert's magnetic eye is not truth. During this trying ordeal may he have the mental poise to be able to look at caterpillars without feeling them crawling all over him.

Barley Growing in Girl's Throat.

San Diego, Cal. Feb. 6.—Miss Martha Marquardt, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Hans Marquardt, was afflicted last week with what she believed to be tonsilitis.

The condition of her throat finally became so grave it was decided to call in a doctor. The physician made an examination and was surprised to find growing in Miss Marquardt's throat a pale little shoot about three quarters of inch in length, curled back upon itself.

Dr. Hearne inserted forceps and without difficulty dislodged from a pocket in the tonsils a small barley seed which had lodged in the throat and terminated there.

Miss Marquardt immediately felt relief and her tonsilitis disappeared.

For Representative.

We are authorized to announce

T. H. COCHRAN

Of Marion, as a Candidate for Representative from the counties of Crittenden and Livingston, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

In the House the other day Hon.
O. M. James made a short but incise and telling speech on the pending Railroad Bill, one of the most important measures now before Congress. Mr. James was liberally and heartily cheered from the Democratic side of the House.

A man in Texas who swallowed a 5 cent piece twenty years ago has just coughed it up. We will give a liberal reward to learn the process by which he was induced to cough up the coin. We have a few subscribers on whom we would like to try it.—Hickman Star.

There is a slight unpleasantness just now between the President and the Senate. The President claims he has the right to negotiate treaties by "memorandum," without the "advice and consent" of the Senate. But the Senate says not, and just now that body seems to be on top. But wait for Teddy's solar-plexus.

When the Governor has to be called upon for a battalion of troops to guard a helpless prisoner to his court of trial, in order to prevent a daylight assassination, what must the outside world think of such a community? Mose Felner may be so guarded into Jackson and Breathitt county furnish as the community wherein lurks this deadly peril

The question of a site for our new State Capitol has been definitely settled. The Hunt place in South Frankfort was agreed upon finally, and the question of purchasing any additional ground was left in the hands of the Capitol Commissioners and the next General Assembly. Finding no other business to transact, the extra session then adjourned

It is said that a mind reader recently, in a neighboring town, having demonstrated to a party of ladies and gentlemen his ability to read a newspaper through two thicknesses of horse blankets, one of the girls, a native of Metropolis, left the room with the remark that she "was not going to stay there any longer with that calico dress on"—Paducah Register.

At present the Ohio river is in the most dangerous and menacing condition ever known to the oldest boatmen. It is frozen solid from its mouth to its source, with huge ice gorges scattered along its entire length. Hundreds of steamers and smaller craft are imprisoned in its icy folds, and when a thaw comes and the ice moves out, the destruction of marine property can not help but be immense.

Marion sets the pace; others follow. At the banquet of the Marion Commercial Club on New Year's eve, several of the prominent business and professional men of Morgantown were in attendance, and so delighted were they with their reception here and with the growing importance of our Club, that the seed sown that night have already blossomed into full flower. We see by last week's Sun, that a meeting of the business and professional men and other citizens of Morgantown was held last week resulting in the formation of a full-fledged Commercial Club, with a charter membership of 50 and bright prospects of increase. The Press sincerely congratulates our sister city in taking this forward step toward business and social prominence.
Keep step with Marion in the onward march, gentlemen of the Morgantown Commercial Club, and you will always find your selves well to the front in the battle of life.

A circular has been issued from the rooms of the Army and Navy Club in New York, and signed by Richmond Pierson Hobson, the hero of Santiago harbor, calling the attention of newspaper men of the absolute necessity for generous appropriations by Congress for the construction of war vessels.
Mr. Hobson gives as his reasons for this our long line of unprotected seacoast, the growing importance of our trade with the far East; the constant menace to the Monroe doctrine; and above all a poorly concealed intention among certain European Powers to dis-member China and parcel it out among themselves, regardless of any commercial rights we may have secured by treaty with the court of Peking. Captain Hobson contends that without a navy of the first class our commercial supremacy if not the integrity of the American continent may be endangered by the general upheaval which he predicts for the Old World. Aside from politics and viewing the matter from a strictly business standpoint, the Press casts its vote for liberal naval appropriations and a rigid curtailment of army and other Governmental expenses.

A DISASTROUS DUEL.

Jacksonville, Florida, Feb. 13.— May Brown was killed and her mother and Policeman Cahoon seriously injured in the court room of Judge Travis about noon today when the girl and her mother grew revolvers in court and began to shoot at Owen Loadbolt whom Miss Brown accused of paternity.

The policeman interfered and was shot twice by the women. In the battle Loadbolt got his pistol into play and killed the girl outright. Mrs. Brown was shot twice and may die. Mrs. Freeman, a witness, was shot in the cheek and arm, but will recover. The court stenographer was also hit by a stray bullet. A brother of the girl was in the court room at the time and is alleged to have taken part in the shooting.

Loadbolt was arrested and is now in jail.

All the parties to the affair are prominent and are well known in church circles.

The girl's case against Load-bolt was on trial when the shooting was precipitated by a statement made on the witness stand.

FAST ICE FLOES

Swept Silent, but Menacing,
Down the Ohio.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 14.—Winters grip on the vast ice floes that have gorged the river in many places between Cairo and the headwaters, was loosened last night by the recent rains, and the frozen fields moved down, causing damage which will run close to the half million dollar mark.

Tonight river men are regarding the situation with serious apprehension, as the numerous hummocks are forming into new gorges. For the most part the ice is holding fast all along the river, but it is feared that the damage already done will not compare with that to come when the real break up and run out comes.

From Pittsburg down the river is strewn with the wrecks of the wharfbots, barges, floats, towers and all kinds of craft. Some lie crushed on the banks, whither they have been tossed by the water after having been crushed by the heavy ice. Others are fast in the new gorges that have formed and will undoubtedly be wrecked when the river runs out.

Never before in the history of the river has the situation been fraught with such menace. Old river men say that it is without their memory when a stage of water like that at present could carry off the ice.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—The path of the cold wave extends from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic. The line of zero weather is about in the latitude of Memphis, but all through the South freezing weather is reported. In the North the mercury has registered from zero to 45 degrees below, the latter mark being scored at Richland Center, Wis. Trains everywhere in the North and Northwest are from two to twelve hours late, and because of the packing of the snow in the cuts it is expected it will be several days before the roads are able to restore the schedule time, even if the weather moderates.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Feb. 14.—The ice gorge in the Kentucky river has now reached a dangerous stage and a quick thaw would result in the loss of one million dollars in logs and lumber in a twinkling;
for thirty miles below Beattyville the ice is packed up in places from ten to twenty feet in height, with fifty foot logs standing on end packed like sardines in a box.
Thousands upon thousands have been ground to pieces in the jam and the loss to the timber men of Beattyville is estimated by a mill man to be already near half a million dollars

Owingsville, Ky., Feb. 14.—At Wyoming, on the Licking river, in this county, ice has gorged for a distance of seven miles, and the ice is ten inches thick. The same condition exists along Licking to the mountain regions, and if the gorges break and run down in the gorges at Wyoming, a disaster will occur, as the town is built on the river bank. These gorges are holding back thousands of logs.

ABOUT THOSE WAR SHIPS.

Tokyo, Feb. 13.—The story from Europe that a number of South American warships have been purchased by Russia and have joined Rojeskiy's squadron at Malagasagar, has caused only momentary interest here. The Japanese Admiralty takes no stock whatever in the report. Japan is perfectly familiar with the character of the vessels owned by Argentine and Chili, as well as the other South American republics, and is keeping a close watch on them. It would have been impossible for any of those vessels to have joined the Russian squadron without the knowledge of Japan. The South American Governments have been notified that any such violation of neutrality would be followed by vigorous action on the part of Japan.
The United States Government has also been notified of Japan's position on the question and assured that whatever action it might be necessary for Japan to take to safeguard her own position there would be under no circumstances any violation of the Monroe Doctrine.

reason. She had been working in worded that James Debow was in in the announcement made at the

Mrs. David Johnson, in that city.
They will be at home after Feb. 14.

Paducah in Darkness

The city electric light plant is experiencing much trouble with the machines, which have done two service and are ready for the rack Sunday night the old extra dynamo burned completely out, leaving the city in darkness, so it is advisable for all persons to have their lamps tested and burning when darkness comes.
The two old dynamos gave out Saturday night. One of the boilers has out, and several flues will have to be repaired, which will consume several days. This will cause the city to be in darkness during the period of repairs, but the superintendent has not yet decided which dynamo they will use. The electric light plant is seriously hampered by the fact that the two old dynamos have worn out and new ones are necessary. The regulative bodies recently refused the request of the board of public works for an appropriation of $5,000 for two new dynamoes.—Paducah News Democrat was convicted as accessory and given a two years sentence, was pardoned some time ago.

"THERE ARE OTHERS."

The merchant that makes the greatest success is he who's learned "there are others." The successful men of today are those who have sacrificed personal comforts and even necessary things if need be in order that they may have all the funds necessary to build up a successful business. Every man blessed with the gift of foresight knows well the necessity of sticking close to his business in every possible way if he expects it to pay him some day. Some men realize the fact that plenty of work and lots of unselfishness is required to obtain good results in business. We must not be afraid to help others, this will not detract from our business. Every one of us will find persons who will be willing to work for us if we show a willingness to "lend a hand" to the other fellow. Many who belong to this big family of human beings, have been trying to obtain the earth. Such persons may succeed in getting a large portion of it but they always succeed in getting everything but the good will of the people and usually a bad stomach in the bargain.

Great things are before us in the business world, and he will try to educate himself in the right direction and will take part in the business of bringing forth better times in a general way, will most certainly have his share of its goods, and if he treats his fellows right they will not grudge him his possessions. Be very careful and don't grow hoggish. The world is wide and there is plenty for all and to spare. You can't take any of this away with you when you knock at the door for old St. Peter to open to you. Try to be generous, and let your brothers have their needs supplied. Learn that the honest, industrious man, the man who believes in letting others live, will know that all he needs will be his and even more if he will not be selfish and want everything he sees. Don't be afraid to share your thoughts and good ideas with others. Intelligence is at the right hand of every man, and when he acts on good thought or enables another to do so, other and wiser ones come to him, but the man who is too lazy to act or too mean to impart a good idea to any one is mean enough to become a miser and usually does.

SEED TIME

The experienced farmer has learned that some grains require far different soil than others; some crops need different handling than others. He knows that a great deal depends upon right planting at the right time, and that the soil must be kept enriched. No use of complaining in summer about a mistake made in the spring. Decide before the seed is planted.

The best time to remedy wasting conditions in the human body is before the evil is too deep rooted. At the first evidence of loss of flesh

Scott's Emulsion should be taken immediately. There is nothing that will repair wasted tissue more quickly or replace lost flesh more abundantly than Scott's Emulsion. It nourishes and builds up the body when ordinary foods absolutely fail.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture is the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Watch the progress and life of a man who thinks he is the "whole thing" and that he is just a little better than any other man. He soon becomes friendless, no man cares to transact business with him, and his customers, not slow to discover this fact, will go to another merchant, who has acquired the habit of treating them with all the respect and honor due them.

Do not think that you can shirk your duty towards men and they not resent it. If you want others to deal fairly with you and to honor you, establish this feeling in them by first entertaining it themselves.

Note the advancement in every branch of business and in art and science; in the beginning how little men knew; remember this fact, and remember that there is a great deal for you to know ere you can hope to become what the world terms a successful business man. We are as yet in the kindergarten and it does not become us to imagine we know it all and get the big head. We should be willing to learn, and the only way for us is to learn our lessons well and not forget the through all time.—'Listen.'

Character.

The only thing that walks back from the tomb with the mourners and refuses to be buried is character. That is true. What a man is survives him. It never can be buried. It stays about the home when his footsteps are heard there no more. It lives in the community where he was known; hence we should take care to build into our character only beautiful things.—Ex.

Perfect Confidence.

Where there used to be a feeling of uneasiness and worry in the household when a child showed symptoms of croup, there is now perfect confidence. This is owing to the uniform success of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the treatment of that disease. Mrs. M. I. Basford, of Podesville, Md., speaking of her experience in the use of that remedy says: "I have a world of confidence in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for I have used it with perfect success. My child Garland is subject to severe attacks of croup and it always gives him prompt relief." For sale by Woods & Orme, Druggists.

Boss Tom Platt.

Washington, Feb. 8.—C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich., who has interested himself largely in the establishment of a parcels post system today filed with President Pro Tem. Frye, of the Senate, a petition for the expulsion of Senator Platt from the Senate. The petition is based upon the assertion that Mr. Platt, as the executive officer of the United States Express Company, is a party to a conspiracy to maintain identical rates among express companies for articles shipped over their lines, and his asserts that Platt has told representatives of his line that he will oppose all legislation injuriously affecting his company's interests.

Grave Trouble Unforeseen.

It needs but little foresight, to tell, that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead, unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young, of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time but in Electric Bitters, I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee Woods & Orme, druggists, at 50c a bottle.

Wants the State as a Party.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—In the Court of Appeals this morning Commonwealth's Attorney John R. Allen, of Fayette county, made a motion in the case of the Hargises and others vs. Watts Parker, Circuit Judge, in which a temporary writ of prohibition is pending until February 10, to prevent the trial of defense for complicity in the Cockrill murder, the Breathitt court claiming jurisdiction and asking that the commonwealth of Kentucky be made a party to the proceedings.

The petition, which was in writing, sets up that the Commonwealth was directly interested; that Judge Parker had no real interest; that he was just a representative of the judicial department of the State Government, and that this be done in furtherance of carrying out these purposes. He further asked that the following witnesses be summoned here to testify before this court: James W. Edwards, James Hargis, Alexander Hargis, Elbert Hargis, Ed Callahan, B. F. French, W. H. Blanton, Henry Freeman, J. J. C. Bach, Kelly Kash, Ned Maron, Henry Hurst, Sidney Johnson, Bruce Little, J. L. McCoy, Jack McGrath and J. W. Marshall.

MRS. CECILIA STOWE,
Orator, Entire Noun Club.

176 Warren Avenue,
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22, 1902.
For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Mrs. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is saddened by female weakness and how completely Wine of Cardui cures that sickness and brings health and happiness again. Do not go on suffering. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.

Screaming with fright the three women dashed out into zero weather and leaped headlong into three convenient snowdrifts. They escaped with slight burns.

KANSAS LETTER.

GREEN ELDON, KAN., Feb 7, 1905. ED. PRESS: Perhaps some of your readers would like to hear from this part of Kansas again and having written nothing since last summer I will try you once more.

Well, we had only a fair crop of wheat, it was too wet. That may sound strange for Kansas in the minds of some eastern people is synonymous with drought, cyclones and Populism. We have had too much rain for the last two years, and I believe, (and I have lived here the last 18 years) that we are not cursed with any more tornadoes or other bad storms than old Kentucky, and that is putting it pretty strong, but it is Populism all merged in the old parties, but I notice both the old parties are advocating many of the principles of the Populist party that were derided a few years ago.

In this part of Kansas, the National, we had a splendid crop of corn. Some yields were as high as 70 bushels per acre, with an average of near 40 bushels per acre, and of course with good prices for wheat, corn and live stock the country is very prosperous and is selling all the way from twenty to fifty dollars per acre. Pretty good prices for a country settled in 1870.

It has been very cold here for the past month, 25 degrees below zero one time and near 15 inches of snow on the ground now, and has been snowing every few days a month. Have had no rain since winter and the snow lays over the fields, which is just what wheat needs.

Miss Mitchell county, is about central county of the Solomon valley, in north central Kansas, one county south of Nebraska. The land is what is called "stone land" and the soil is as good as the best bluegrass land in Kentucky, but is not adapted to bluegrass, or any of the tame grasses, probably on account of the general dryness of the climate and the high altitude, being 1500 feet above sea level, but for roughness we have prairie grass, alfalfa, millet, sorghum and kafir corn.

Of course every country has its advantages, and I have never seen any country where an ordinary man did not have to hustle for a living, but it seems to me that one can make a living and make money here easier than in Kenton

The land is generally smooth level and very fertile; with stones in the way, no sprouts, briars, no heavy timber to get off before you can raise even one crop. A man might be a farmer here and live to be a stout old man, but in a county like Crittenden it hardly seems possible, that is as a general thing, at least, I have to be shown.

Of course there are many good things to be said of Crittenden county, a healthy climate, good timber, good fruits and tame grasses, and probably great mineral probabilities, and above all else, an intelligent, kind and hospitable people.

From what I read in your paper (and by the way you get up a real live paper) Marion must be a fine and enterprising town, full of life and vim, very different from the sleepy little old town of twenty years ago. I suppose if I were to drop into Marion some fine morning I expect I would be like Rip Van Winkle, rather astounded at the changes and up-to-dateness there of the Metropolis of old Crittenden.

May the town of Marion ever prosper, and may your shadow, Mr. Editor, never grow less.

Yours faithfully,

J. T. WITHERSPOON.

In the western section of Kentucky peanut raising has been discovered to be exceedingly profitable. The nuts are said to be better than any in the country, of finer quality, and the quantity larger per acre than those raised in Virginia and Tennessee; the highest peanuts raised in the Union Pennants raised on the Exall place, in McCracken county, this year yielded $175 per acre, and the hay is worth $10 an acre, making a total of $210 per acre. About 500 acres of gooders were raised in McCracken, Graves and Ballard counties the past year.

If FOERG'S REMEDY has cured him why not you? Why do you go on suffering the mental tortures of the damned when you know there is a cure certain and sure. Is a cure not worth $5.00 to you? That is all it will cost, for we absolutely guarantee six bottles at a cost of $5.00 to cure the worst cases of specific blood poisoning. Think of the joy to you in the return of perfect clean health, and go at once to the below address and get this wonderful remedy. It is manufactured by

The petition is based upon the assertion that Mr. Platt, as the executive officer of the United States Express Company is a party to a conspiracy to maintain identical rates among express companies for articles shipped over their line and he asserts that Platt has told representatives of his line that he will oppose all legislation injuriously affecting his company's interest.

In his petition Mr Post charges the six express companies of the United States with conspiring to violate the anti-trust act by monopolizing the express business of the country and fixing the price of transportation.

OBITUARY.

GEO. WASHINGTON BLACKBURN.

Born in Caldwell county, Ky., Dec. 31, 1852, died Feb. 3, 1906, at his home in East Marion. He was twice married—first to Bettie Herald in 1873; to this union was born one child who died in infancy; last married to Rosa Bell Crowell; to this union was born seven children, three of whom are dead. Professed faith in Christ at the age of about 16 and joined the Baptist church at Dollason, where he remained loyal to his church and true to his pastor till God saw fit to call him away.

We can not always understand why we are to lose our best friends and neighbors; why God robs his church of its most useful members. Why He calls a true husband and a kind father away when with our sphere it seems as that they were so much needed, when he leaves us none better, more true, more braver, yet we bow in humble submission to his will for "all things work together for good to them that love God." We believe that within this man was an inheritance of courage, of manliness, of imperishable love of liberty, of undying adherence to principle.

Brother Blackburn's infancy and youth—you might say—had none of these distinctions, none of these pitiful features appealing to the tender heart and open hand of charity, although he was a poor boy born and reared on a farm; the small and the great timbers has he cut from off the uncleared ground yet no man ever grew in the agricultural regions of Western Kentucky where house raising, or even corn shucking was a matter of common interest and helpfulness, with any other feeling than that of neighboring and respecting neighbor's rights, and we can safely say that a better neighbor no man never lived by.

His opportunities for securing an education were extremely limited as most of his school days passed with the civil war. Yet he took as his text book, the Bible; he read its pages until he became familiar with its literature. He was buried at Dollason Feb. 4th, Rev. W. H. Moore conducting the funeral from 2 Timothy 4:7-8. There he sleeps peacefully embalmed in the tears of his many friends; peace be to his dead name while he sleeps the years away; Heaven's richest blessings rest upon the bereaved ones. A FRIEND.

CROOKED CREEK.

Miss Mande Gill closed her school at the Brown school house last Friday which was the best school that has been taught there in long time. A scholar never gets too large for her not to correct and never too small for her to neglect. Friday morning all the patrons with well-filled baskets attended the school the last day and the day spent by the children saying pieces, which they all did well. Hugh Wilborn with the rest of the little folks did well. Hugh makes a good team any where. Willie Stout got the premium for being the best scholar. Evert Davies and Doil Vaughn never missed a day during the full term of school.
